Strengthening the conditions for long-term investment

Australia offers a highly attractive environment for life sciences investment, combining globally competitive science with strong translational capability, an efficient clinical ecosystem and clear development pathways.

As Australia's leading life sciences industry body, AusBiotech is uniquely positioned to connect science, capability and capital through year-round programs, curated engagement and market-facing activity.

AusBiotech Invest - 20 October 2026, Gold Coast

AusBiotech Invest is a key pillar of Australia's Biggest Week in Biotech and is designed exclusively for active, sophisticated investors to strengthen the capital environment for the Australian life science sector. The program is focused on building investor confidence, domestic syndication, global capital attraction and more co-ordinated pathways to fund high-potential Australian companies.

Registration is through an application and will be limited to venture capital investors; family offices; institutional investors; private investment groups; corporate venture and strategic investors; relevant capital market participants.

Brand Sponsorships for AusBiotech Invest

Sponsorship opportunities for AusBiotech Invest Gold Coast 2026 are now open. Bespoke packages will be designed to align with the unique nature of the capital - focused program. To discuss and secure your tailored opportunity, contact us at invest@ausbiotech.org.

Companies looking to apply for Investor Readiness Panel (IRP) Review

The free, sector-wide IRP initiative supports Australian life sciences companies year-round to better prepare for investor engagement and future capital raising.

Through structured, stage-relative feedback and investor-informed assessment, the IRP helps companies strengthen their investment proposition, sharpen their commercial and capital narrative, and better understand what sophisticated investors look for at each stage of growth.

IRP participants may be selected for AusBiotech Investment opportunities within Australia's Biggest Week in Biotech as part of the AusBiotech International Conference or the AusMedtech Conference or suggested other events that become available throughout the year.
